INTRODUCTION

THE contents of this book are offered to the building public to illustrate the scope of the business of the GEORGE A. FULLER CO. The buildings here shown are selected from over two hundred and fifty fire-proof structures erected by this Company, aggregating in cost over Three Hundred Million Dollars. The object of the book is to give Architects and Owners examples of the best practice in planning and designing buildings of the types represented, showing how various problems in planning have been handled by leading Architects of the United States.

ATTENTION is called to the three buildings constructed by this Company which passed through the Baltimore fire, illustrations of which are shown from photographs taken after the fire. In no case was there any but the most trivial damage done to the structural portions of these buildings. They were all repaired by renewing the woodwork and decorative portions of the buildings, and the damaged parts of the exteriors. The percentage of salvage in these buildings ranged from sixty to eighty-five per cent.
